

dipolar rotor rotates upon excitation by an alternating electric field, producing electric current by the alternating motion of the electric dipole of the rotor portion of said dipolar rotor.